Chemistry Tests screen for abnormal kidney, liver and pancreatic functions, as well as to check blood sugar and calcium levels

Electrolytes: Imbalances are an indicator for many conditions, including kidney disease, diabetes, Addison's disease, Cushing's disease, parathyroid disorders, certain cancers, and IBD

SDMA is a very sensitive kidney function test, critical to identifying kidney disease early

4DX with Reflex C6 is a blood parasite screen to detect heartworms that are spread by mosquitoes, and tick-borne diseases like lyme, ehrlichia, and anaplasma

Fecal DX to detect intestinal parasites which may be contagious to people and other pets

Urinalysis with Reflex UPC to screen for urinary tract infections and other diseases, and to evaluate the kidney's ability to concentrate urine

Thyroid (T4): Tests for hypothyroidism and, less common, pituitary disorders or cancer

* If indicated, these tests will automatically 'reflex' to a secondary test at no additional charge to you
